

JUSFC and the Pacific Forum CSIS present

“A legacy of peace: the US-Japan partnership after 70 years”

Seventy years after the end of the Pacific War, the United States and Japan have forged a vibrant and valuable partnership. Today, the two countries constitute one of the strongest alliance relationships in the world. The next generation will inherit this partnership and the responsibility to build upon it and make it stronger and more relevant still. This workshop will bring together Young Leaders and next-generation Americans and Japanese to examine the meaning and importance of the relationship, the political legacies of the war, and to develop ways to improve their partnership. The meeting is made possible by the generous support of the Japan US Friendship Commission and the Pacific Forum CSIS.

WHEN:

Friday, February 27, 2015

8:00AM-4PM

Breakfast and lunch will be served.

WHERE:

The Pacific Club, Card Room

1451 Queen Emma Street, Honolulu, HI

Free self-parking is available at the Club

WHO:

We are inviting young professionals and students between the ages of 22-35 to participate in the meeting.

For additional information or to confirm participation, please send an email to Petra Kubalkova: petra@pacforum.org with your name, email address, short 150 word biography and high resolution headshot.